Solano County Superintendent Wins Regional 2017 Outstanding Women Leader Award

Solano County Superintendent Lisette Estrella Henderson has been selected the Regional winner of the Outstanding Women Leader Award for 2017 by the Association of California School Administrators (ACSA). ACSA is the largest umbrella organization of school leaders in the United States.

The three outstanding local educational leaders will be honored in a special ceremony during the annual Spring Women's Leadership Conference on April 24th in Sacramento. The guest speaker for this event is Delaine Eastin, the only woman to be elected to the position of the California State Superintendent of Public Instruction.

The other two award winners are Darrien Johnson; Director of Human Resources; Rescue Union Elementary School District (Region 2) and Deborah Bettencourt; Superintendent; Folsom-Cordova Unified School District.

The recipients were chosen by their region executive boards and confirmed by the Women's Leadership Network Conference committee.
